School Introduction

Ta Kioh Buddhist Temple Great Enlightenment Chinese School was found in February 1991 supported by devoted Buddhist and volunteers. Over the years, we maintain high standard in curriculum design and teaching method with an emphasis on virtues. Following are some of our special features:

Financial Aid: Financial aids are available to low-income families for returning students.

Tier tuition: Please refer to Tuition information above.

New and Old Teaching Material Combined: Combining old and new teaching materials to accommodate students of different skill levels.

Good Manner and Virtues through Buddhist Spirit: Through Buddhist's compassion, and the sublime teaching of the Buddha – the four immeasurable: kindness, compassion, joy and equanimity, emphasis is being placed on students, cultivation of good manner and virtues. Our goal is to educate students how to be grateful, appreciative, and caring.

Curriculum: The curriculums are creative, flexible and direct, they are designed to motivate learning.

The Ta Kioh Buddhist Temple Great Enlightenment Chinese School was established under the principle of kindness, compassion, joy and equanimity. Most schools place their emphasis on education of knowledge while our school also emphasize on the Buddha's teaching and the cultivation of virtues, preparing our students to become future contributors to the society they live in.
